In Memoriam

This edition of "Titan Tradition" is dedicated to the memory of Mr. Harry Dean Ainlay, the outstanding and inspiring individual for whom our school is named.

1887-1970

Principal's Message

This is the fourth class to graduate from Harry Ainlay. This has been an auspicious year in many ways. The additions to the school have been completed. We now have over six acres under one roof. Many fine facilities have been provided — new classrooms — new science labs and new industrial arts and vocational areas. It has been a very active year as far as the students are concerned. There have been many activities, social, sports and money raising for charity as well as a blood donors clinic. The students have become more involved in helping make decisions in respect to operating the school. Students want privileges but many are not anxious to assume the responsibility that goes with this. The main student body has not yet learned to exert the pressures which are necessary to control the mischievous minority. This is not surprising when society as a whole has not been very successful either. However, we are very proud of what you have done and the school in the years ahead will benefit from what you have initiated this year.

There is one sad note and that is that the person who gave his name to the school is critically ill and is not expected to live very long. Harry Ainlay was a dedicated teacher who took great pride and interest in the activities of the students in this school. His annual visits were looked forward to and his keen mind and wit were much appreciated by those who had the opportunity to talk to him. The ideals that he stood for should be an inspiration for students in the years to come.

It is to be hoped that you have enjoyed your stay at Ainlay. It is also hoped you have matured and profited from your experiences in the school so that you now feel prepared to go on to higher learning or training or else to go out into the world of work. Whatever it is, the best wishes of the staff of Harry Ainlay go with you.

W.O. McLe

President's Message

the choice is yours

You can decide that you are just marking time here

until you can leave this place to make it to someplace greener or

you can decide that you want to make something out of your life to create to understand to think to be you

there is only one variable
the fact that you as a human being,
alone,
have the power to change

the choice is yours

FOOTBALL

The Junior Titans played an extremely good season this year. They made the city finals only to lose to the O'Leary Spartans by a heart-breaking score of 14-13. With this team's determination and capability, we can expect great things next year.

The Senior Titans, on the other hand, did not play as successful a season. But many a hard-fought game provided entertainment and excitement for Ainlayites.

A number of strong individual performances gave the Senior Boys' Basketball a balanced team and led them to another successful season. In the pre-season Capher Tournament, our team placed fourth, which earned them a berth in the Golden Bear Christmas Invitational. In final league standings the Titans tied for eighth place, the final playoff spot, but due to a loss of Ross Shep, settled for ninth place.

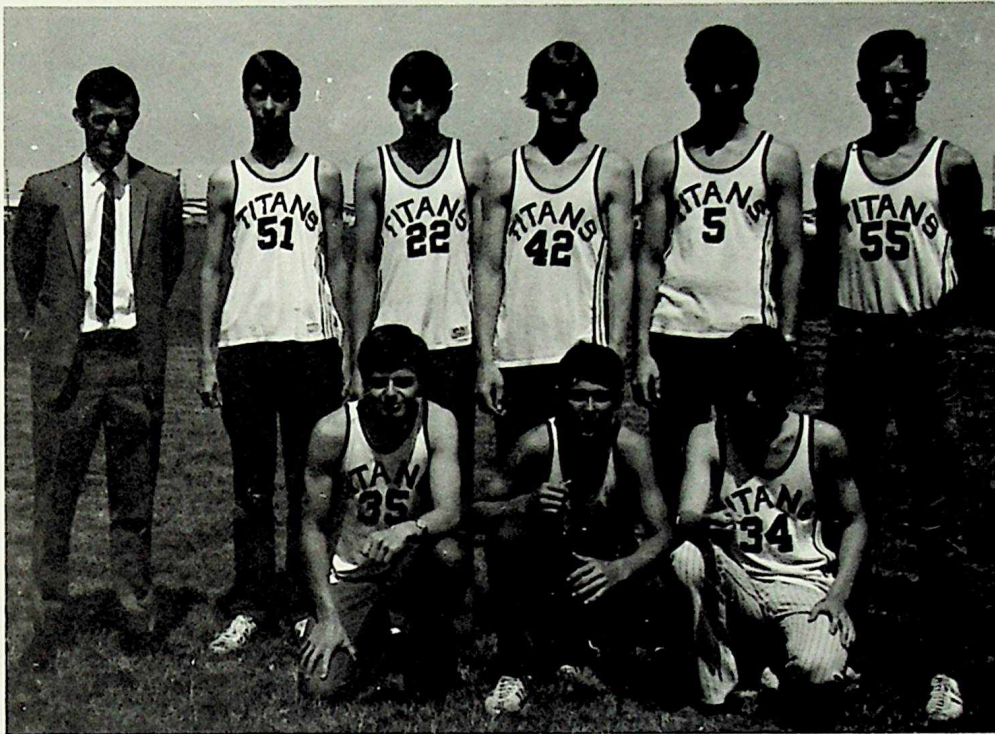

The Junior Boys' Basketball had a very successful first half of the season, but had trouble in their last eight games. The team finished January with seven wins and two losses and in second place. However, the last eight games resulted in only one more win and the team finished two points out of the playoffs.

The Senior Girls' had a good season this year. Unfortunately, in the semi-finals they lost to Jasper Place by only two points.

The Junior Girls' Basketball team placed fifth in their league this season. They lost four and won three games in league play and advanced to the playoffs. There they lost their first game to O'Leary, but came on strong to make it to the finals of the consolations. They played Londondary and lost a close one in the final game.

Volleyball

GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL

After an unsuccessful season, the Junior Girls' volleyball team managed to qualify for the semi-finals. However, they came back strong to place third in the city finals, very close behind Jasper Place and Austin O'Brien.

The Senior Girls' volleyball team had a very successful season. They won 22 games out of 36 in league play and ended up in fourth place in their division. They played outstanding volleyball in the semi-finals and as a result won with an 11-3 record. They then advanced into the city finals, where they were defeated by Eastglen in a best of five series, 3-0. All in all the girls improved tremendously throughout the year which made it possible for them to do so well.

BOYS' VOLLEYBALL

The Senior Boys' volleyball team had a 20 game season with 7 wins and 13 losses. Outstanding players were Victor Melvin, Rob Jones, and Dave Hoy. The team played well but lost five games by scores less than 5 points. As a result, the team's win and loss record does not accurately tell the story.

The Girls at Work

Badminton

The Badminton Club played Monday at noon on a regular basis all year. From the club a school team was chosen and it competed in the inter-high school badminton competitions. Harry Ainlay placed second in their division but lost out on the finals to Ross Shepherd. Four team members made the provincial team tryouts and competed in Calgary in April.

Weight Lifting

The Weight Lifting Club enjoyed a successful year with many records falling to the members through their efforts. The records set by club members will provide a challenge to future members.

Wrestling

ROW THREE: Glenn Coates, Rob Macklem, Pete McLelland, Bob MacDormand, Bill Brooks, Peter Leigh-Spencer.

The Harry Ainlay Titans had their best year in wrestling to date. The Titans won 4 of their 5 dual meets and tied Jasper Place in the other one. Harry Ainlay placed 2nd in the Northern Alberta Championships and 2nd in the city high school championships. One of the outstanding wrestlers for 1969-'70 was Glenn Coates who never lost a high school wrestling match in over 25 matches. Don Lore and David Jardine also were winners. Bill Brooks, Darrell Schwab and Rob Macklem won 1st place gold at both the regional and provincial matches. A team with a lot of potential for 1970-'71!

Girls' Gymnastics

Harry Ainlay's girls' gymnastics team did very well for themselves this year. The team consisted of 22 girls in the Junior, Intermediate and Senior classes. They placed ten girls in the city finals, two who won their particular events and one who received the highest mark of the night. Out of these ten, five were placed on the city team which travelled to Calgary for the Provincials. Of these five, two placed out of the top six in their respective classes and events. Ainlay can be very proud of these girls for their fine showing.

Boys' Gymnastics

In the first year of the club, gymnasts concentrated on long training and never formally organized. However, they competed in a number of inter-school meets. Five gymnasts advanced to the first annual Provincial Championships.

Table Tennis Club

The Table Tennis Club has 50 members who play everyday. The best 8 to 10 members compete with six other school teams in the city. This year our club reached the semi-finals.

Swim Team

The boys' team was bolstered by three club swimmers who won two of the five qualification meets and did well in the championship final. More girls were needed to enable Harry Ainlay to compete with the strong swimming schools of J.P. and Scona.

Curling Club

The Curling Club this year consisted of 40 members. They partook in a Round Robin series and a Bonspiel. Ainlay entered several city bonspiels with competition as their reward. At the wind-up banquet trophies were awarded.

Harry Ainlay's Madrigal Singers and Ainlayettes, under the direction of Mr. Ross, have performed in many concerts during the year. At Christmas they sang at the Good Samaritan Nursing Home. They have also performed at the Night of Music, the opening of Y.A. Cairns Junior High School, and the Music Festival. With this type of format, these choral courses were made more enjoyable.

Modern Languages

The Modern Languages club was formed this year for the purpose of improving the members' knowledge of the customs, history, and languages of France, Germany, and Quebec.

Olympus

The Olympus staff selects material to go in the Olympus, Ainlay's literary magazine. The literature is taken from the student body, but most of it comes from Language 21. Hopefully, Olympus '70 will be issued in June.

Reach for the Top

MEMBERS: Cliff Arnold, Harold Climenhaga, Richard Guthrie, Cindy Sykes, alternate Robert West, missing; Mrs. Williams. Ainlay's Reach for the Top team competed early in the season against Eastglen and Archbishop Macdonald schools. They defeated Eastglen but were eliminated when Archbishop Macdonald scored higher points.

Encyclops

Last Will and Testament

We the booster club bequeath the problem of apathetic students, our fund, the harassment of the Students' Union, our stale chocolate bars, and Miss St. Andre, to the next year's booster club.

Mathematics Club

The Mathematics Club reflected new freedom. No executive was chosen this year. Members pursued their own interests and attended only when they wished. Mathematic contests received most of the members attention.

Debating Teams

The debating teams were active throughout the year. They took part in inter-school debates and in the Sir Winston Churchill debates. The Senior team of Cindy Sykes and George Betts have been highly successful in their endeavors. Marlene Mendryk and Cliff Arnold, the Junior team, also have mastered the art of debate.

Chess Club

Library Club

Without the efforts of the library club the library could not function. Club members find working with people to be fun, sometimes hectic, sometimes relaxing. Some contemplate a library career.

Audio-visual Club

The audio-visual club was mainly active in the language lab, but later in the year they were taught photography and how to use the audio-visual equipment.

Science Club

This year the science club undertook two major projects. One dealt with chemiluminescence and the second was a study into the polymerization of water. Satisfactory progress was made on both investigations.

Biology Club

The Biology Club has had a fruitful year. Our gerbils and rats gave birth several times and Harry, the guinea pig, also did her part. Less active projects included Algernon, the club alligator, and Beelzebub, our rabbit, as well as numerous hamsters, mice, fish, and plants.

I.S.C.F.

The Inter-School Christian Fellowship has had a number of interesting speakers at their meetings as well as discussions, debates, films, and Bible studies. We hope that these have helped to give us a better understanding of life.

Auto Club

The Chariotteers car club, while small in numbers, is slowly gaining momentum. So far this year the club has sponsored one car rally, held a drag racing car show and presented films on automobile safety. The club is currently rebuilding an engine for an Edmonton race driver, who will run the Chariotteers name on his car next year.

Junior Achievement

Six students are participating in the Junior Achievement program for 1969-1970. They are Brian Chute, Joan Heatherington, Stuart Money, Ken Pritchard, Allan Robertson, and Carol Smart. They have formed and represent companies such as Bubbler Unlimited, Lin-Co, C.P. Jace, Ja Can, and Achievers United.

March 6's Lit in the gymnasium brought an entertaining respite from some morning classes to Ainlayites. Musical entertainment was provided by the school band, the Ainlayettes and our talented President and Social Convenor. Skits were prepared by the Modern Languages Club (in French, Japanese, and English) and the English Department doing their version of ROMEO AND JULIET. The Naiad contestants also delivered impromptu speeches. Later the Jug Band performed in the rotunda.

Naiad Week got off to a flying start Monday, March 2 with the log-sawing contest and obstacle race. On Tuesday the girls modelled outfits from Keith of London in a fashion show in the rotunda. Although there was a false fire alarm during the show, it continued with great success. Six semi-finalists were named at the sock-hop Wednesday that featured "Sundance". They were Sharon Allen, Gail Knutson, Linda Wedman, Beth Lambertson, Helen Outhet, and Marnie McMillan. That evening the girls, accompanied by their escorts, and the judges had dinner at the Embers. This provided an opportunity for the judges to mark the girls on poise and personality in a social situation. On Thursday the balloon shaving drew many laughs from the students. Next came the dress-making contest which produced some humorous results. On the final day there was a Lit in the gymnasium which the six semi-finalists were required to make an impromptu speech. Topics ranged from "noodles" to "the boogey-man". That evening a dance was held in the school with "Done on Bradstreet". There Linda Wedman was crowned our Naiad Queen for this year.

Yearplay

The Drama Department, under the direction of Mr. J.R. Ross, staged their first production, "Send Me No Flowers", on November 21 and 22.

The play is a comedy about a hypochondriac (Chris Hanson) who overhears a conversation by his doctor (John Constable) and assumes he is dying. He confides only in his alcoholic neighbour (John Barry). His devoted wife (Val McDonell) suspects that he has a mistress (Kathy Frost). He even goes so far as to buy a cemetery plot from Mr. Akins (Bob Gower) and tries to fix his wife up with an old beau (Norm Hyer). The play features dream sequences, one in which he sees his wife married to the delivery boy (Ron Evans), another in which he sees himself with a prostitute (Becky Ings).

The play went off well both nights.

"Send Me No Flowers"

Operetta

Ainlay's first operetta, "Down in the Valley" by Kurt Wiill, was presented this spring. The music, based on American folk songs, told the story of a young man condemned to die who returns to visit the girl he loves. Starring roles were played by Cliff Arnold, Anne Longworth, Frank Thede, Richard Guthrie and Denton Reynolds.

In-a-Gadda-da-Vida

Evening of Melody

Harry Ainlay's annual Evening of Melody was held on April 10. The school choral and instrumental classes combined to present a variety program to an appreciative audience.

Awards 1970

Allan Bell — Outstanding Boy

Linden Van Alstine — Outstanding Girl

Doug Kimball — Wayne Sanborn
Citizenship Award

Don Jansen, Students' Union Vice-President and Miss Naiad, Linda Wedman presided over the Awards Night Ceremonies on June 3, 1970.

Curricular awards were presented in the areas of Matriculation, Business, and Technical Vocational Education. Honor awards were presented to students achieving a 79.5% or greater average in designated subject areas, while those students achieving a 74.5% to a 79.49% average received Honorable Mention.

Athletic awards were presented for participation and excellence in sports on the basis of a point system set up by the Edmonton High School Athletic Council. Thirty points resulted in a Minor Athletic Award, and 150 points were needed to obtain the highest Triple Major Award, with Major and Double Major Awards ranking in between.

Participation in music, art and drama to a specified extent merited a Fine Arts Award. Twenty points were required for a Minor award and thirty points for a Major award.

Activities awards were presented to students who had contributed considerable time and effort to school activities.

The Award of Merit in Home Economics was presented to students with Honor Standing in three (including one senior) home economics course.

The Wayne Sanborn Memorial Citizenship Award was presented to one student demonstrating strong leadership qualities, who is courteous and co-operative, participating in athletics, activities, and curricular studies.

Outstanding Boy and Girl Awards were presented to those students excelling in curricular studies, executive ability, leadership, and participation in activities and displaying good character throughout high school.

During the ceremonies Mr. McLean, who is retiring this year, was made a life-time honorary member of the Students' Union and presented with the traditional scarf and beanie. Also two new annual awards were presented on his behalf, the W.O. McLean Awards for athletic achievement. (Linden Van Alstine and Gane Olsen).

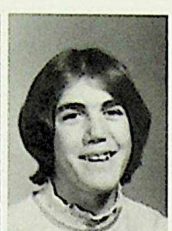

All in all the evening, even though during a record hot spell, was quite a success.

GRAD PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

As members of the Grad Class of '70, we have arrived at one of the key points in our lives . . . a place we can look back to see where we've been, can assess where we are now, and can make choices to determine what we will do with our lives. Emerging into a world of adult responsibility, we have been shaped by our responses to the influence of home, friends and school. The recent graduation ceremonies stand as a symbol of the individual nature of these experiences, but a point of time in our lives that hold common elements for us all. Personal responsibility — for our responses and choices now and in the future can no longer be foisted onto a nebulous "they" called authority. We now stand or should stand as our own emerging responsibility.

Some further common factors for us all —

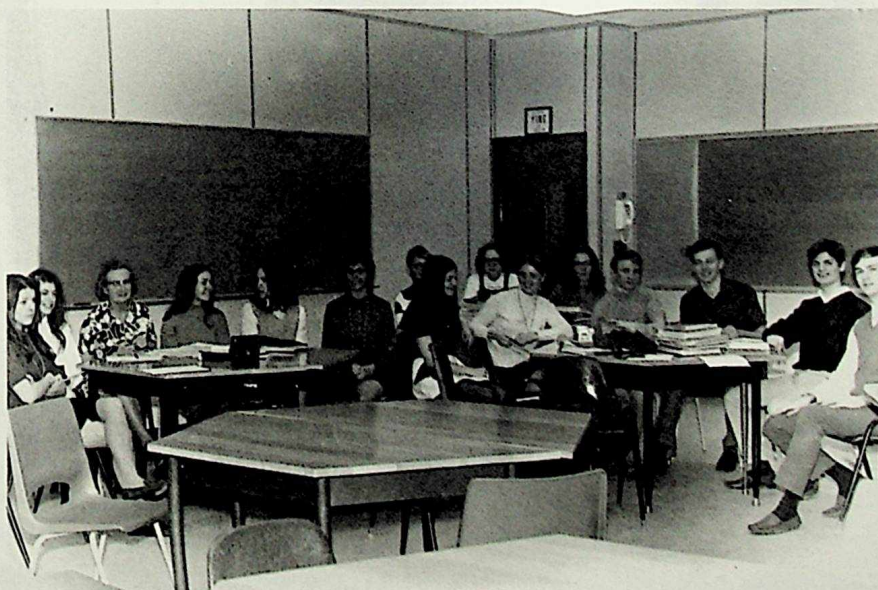

Human nature changes slowly the world around us is in one of its dynamic periods of rapid change and knowledge explosion. Harry Ainlay, the man, was a privileged experience for us . . . a chart, like our schooling, to help guide the raft of our change, to show us our responsibility for ourselves, as we experience "us" in relationships with others and their ideas . . . the means to cope with a rapidly changing world. How well we assume responsibility for this and other aspects of self-authority, will determine whether we choose to work from strength as architects of our future, or whether we continue to flounder in the anarchistic and for some, the destructive authority quarrel of continued adolescence.

The years to now, Graduation '70, suggest our search for freedom, and our ability to face the challenge of change is now a choice for each of us. I view the past twelve years with humour in recall of the frustration, with gratitude for all the positive and negative experiences that have shaped me to the choice of what I and we can do with our lives, and our tomorrows. There can be no freedom without personal responsibility. While we are at different levels in this process, the choices remain ours — to carry a sense of person to constructive life patterns in adapting to the exciting process of change.

The Grad Council of '70 sees much to be done and extends the wish that we will look back from years hence, and reaffirm the stand then as we do now, in favour of constructive action, in a willingness to risk for change, and a personal responsibility for our yesterdays and tomorrows.

Graduation 1970

May
8 and 9

The Commencement Exercises of Ainlay's 1970 Graduation began on a lighthearted note as the graduates proceeded to their seats to the strains of "Raindrops Keep Falling on my Head". The guest speaker, Mr. Fil Fraser, discussed individual liberty and responsibility. Mrs. L. Campbell represented the School Board, and Mr. L. Fleisher represented the Administration in their addresses. George Betts presented a complete class history and Cindy Sykes delivered a thought-provoking valedictory. The Class gift was a sword and shield.

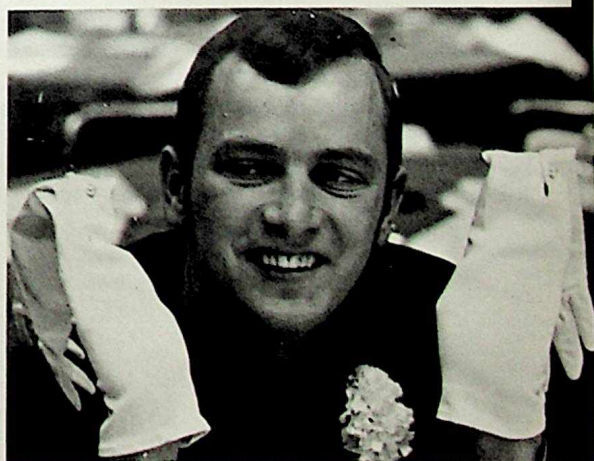

The Graduation Banquet and Dance, held on May 9, 1970 in the Edmonton Inn, was a resounding success. Grad President Randy Willis, Vice-President Bob Symon, Naiad queen Linda Wedman (after a brief delay), and Grad Treasurer Bob McColl, spoke to the graduands, parents, and teachers present at the banquet. Mr. Jackson Willis was the guest speaker.

The dance following the banquet proved to be enjoyable once the major obstacles (inhibitions and trampled toes) were overcome. Most looked forward to the post-banquet and dance celebrations.

Valedictory

We, the graduating class of 1970, represent the end products of what has been called the education assembly line. We have dutifully endured the years of pushing, prodding, and kneading which have attempted to mold us into that mystical creature, the ideal citizen. We have filled in the blanks, written the paragraphs, completed the problems, and raised our hands enough times to be judged educated. Now we are finally through. Many of us say this with a sigh of relief and more than a touch of bitterness. Others of us feel the regret which will eventually grow into nostalgia as the seemingly endless years pass. The opinions are varied because we, the students, are varied. Despite "the best laid plans of mice and men," we have somehow emerged with at least a few individual characteristics although we have been spoonfed the same material and have devoted many years to the pursuit of the same goals.

Yet, presumably, our common experiences have, in many ways, prepared us to promote or at least to accept a common type of society. In the classroom, we have been taught the rosy ideals of small "I" liberalism, but we have also seen that freedom of speech is not always a right. It is often only a privilege to be granted by those in authority, as shown by the censorship of our school newspaper. We have also seen that the privacy and rights of any individual can be easily violated when bureaucrats demand it.

But, despite this rather bleak aspect of much of our schooling, we of this graduating class have also had the good fortune to encounter at least several fine people who have been our teachers at one time or another. These people have earned our respect and admiration, not because of the late slips they issued, the halls they patrolled, or the fear they instilled, but because of their skill as teachers and their understanding as human beings. They have known their subject and have managed to communicate it to us in such a way that it has been a pleasure to learn with them. They have often gone out of their way to help us in our activities or to look for outside sources when they were asked a question they honestly could not answer. The atmosphere of their classrooms has caused us to understand their subject as would not have otherwise been possible. It is to these teachers that we give our thanks. They have shown us what pleasure can come from learning — a lesson of far more future benefit than the now forgotten data of other classes.

This is especially important because future benefit is something we of this class must now consider. For we realize that it is not the meek who shall inherit the earth — it is the young. Although much of our activity is now looked upon with dismay and misunderstanding, the future does belong to us. Eventually our morality shall be that of all society and our ideals shall be its ideals. If we can think of nothing more stimulating than a Saturday night beer bash, a cheap magazine, or evenings in front of the television set, then society shall certainly follow that lead. If we continue to believe that this is the best of all possible worlds simply because personal experience has not proven otherwise, then we will certainly continue to bury our heads in the sand. Naturally, having just completed a twelve year course of obedience training, we may find it difficult to promote many of the necessary changes opposed by those in authority. If this be so, then we might just as well give up right now. We must realize that the growth of science and technology has made it impossible to fall back on that which has supposedly proven successful in previous generations. In fact, to do so may prove disastrous. The world we shall spend much of our lives in will be beset, not only by today's problems, but also by those of tomorrow — problems which mankind has never faced before. That is why many of us have been disillusioned by an education which has often neglected to deal with the present much less come to grips with this, our future; by an education whose basically totalitarian approach has done little to make students realize that an individual has certain rights which must never be violated. Yes, we of this class have indeed been "educated", but what we can do with this education and what we shall do with it remains to be seen.

Cindy Sykes

Class History

In September of 1967, most of us entered Harry Ainlay Composite for the first time. The school was smaller then, and the classes that preceded us were quiet and subdued. Our duty lay clearly before us — we were faced with the task of making a history for Ainlay. Grade Ten was not a year of victories; it was a year of preparation. Secretly and diligently, Ainlayites prepared in anticipation of the following years. Then in Grade Eleven we descended on the unsuspecting population of Edmonton.

Our Senior football team became the champions of the Southern Division, and across Alberta they sulked at the name of provincial wrestling champion Glen Coates. Loring Tu was fifth in Canada in the mathematics competition, and Cindy Sykes won the Edmonton Public Speaking Contest.

In the spring of 1969, the athletes of Ainlay won the Edmonton city track meet. Doug Cameron won the provincial 880, and Gane Olsen holds the city record for the pole-vault. Linden Van Alstine leads the province in hurdles, and Wes Erickson in the pole-vault and long jump.

The girls' gymnastics team won the city championships, and the debating team won the Sir Winston Churchill Debates. Carol Reid represented Miss Teen-age Edmonton in the Miss Teenage Canada contest in Toronto. By the spring of 1970, our class had earned a reputation as one of the most vigorous in Alberta.

While Ainlayites distinguished themselves in the outside world, changes were taking place in the school itself. In September of 1969, Allan Bell officially became President of the Students' Council. The council immediately launched into a campaign against cystic fibrosis, and the mayor was kidnapped to indicate our serious intentions. A swimming pool petition was presented to City Hall by the students and the people of the district.

One of the greatest disappointments to Ainlay was the lack of student participation in student affairs, in spite of the sincere efforts of a few individuals. However, if communication with the students was poor, the Students' Council was successful in communication with the administration.

Linda Wedman was chosen for her charm and attractiveness as the Queen of the Naiads. Her victory was due also to her natural ability on an obstacle course, and her opinions of boogey-men.

During this past year, humanity lost a great man when Mr. Harry Ainlay died. He attended several of our graduations and awards nights, and he always maintained an active interest in the school which bears his name. His careers as teacher and mayor of Edmonton proved him to be a wise and kind human being. We have striven to make our school worthy of his name.

It would be impossible for me to do justice to the achievements of my classmates. We have worked harder and done more than either our parents or our teachers suspect. Our only hope is that we can prove it on our finals.

Where Do You Stand?

Young People today are constantly having to make decisions on where they stand in their society and their world. There are the questions of drugs, war, discrimination, patriotism, careers, and family life.

To form opinions and to take definite stands teens need facts, information and background material. This material appears daily in The Edmonton Journal.

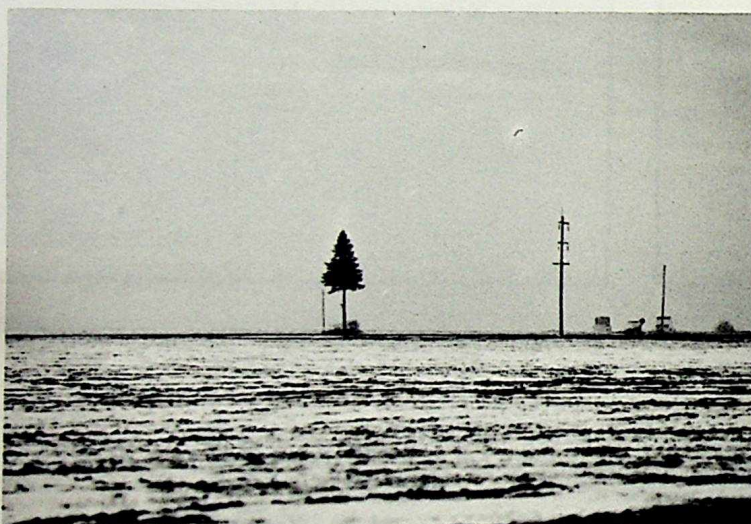

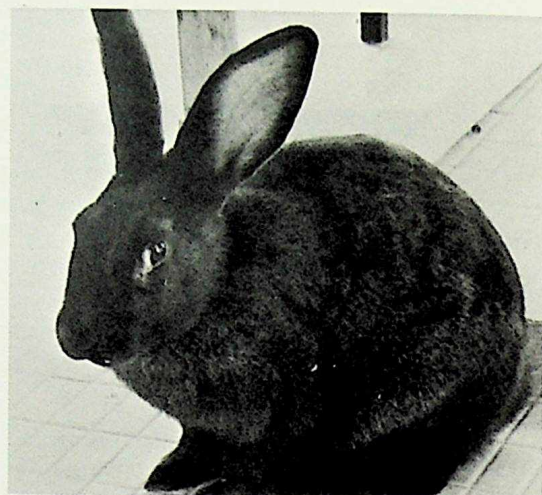

A wide variety of features appear regularly in The Journal so that you will be kept fully informed. Especially for Teens is the Teen Page every Friday with school news and articles by high school students. There's also Teen Dateline, pertinent questions from teens answered by Ele and Walt Dulaney, which appears daily in The Journal.

THE MEMOIRS OF A YEARBOOK EDITOR

July 9, 1970 12:47 a.m.

I write this as I crop the last photo, finish the last layout mat. And as I perform these final tasks, I begin to reminisce. I recall — all those Tuesday and Thursday noon hours (about 72 of them!), the yearbook room in the plastics lab (who ever heard of a yearbook in a PLASTICS LAB? ), groping for the light switch in the darkness (which can be dangerous), wondering where the yearbook staff was, the yearbook staff wondering where I was, all those old, stale lunch bags piling up month after month, always losing the key under some pile of debris and the frantic search to find it (the excitement never subsided for a moment), always losing SOMETHING, trying to be organized, continually bugging people (thank you so much for putting up with it), running miles around Ainlay's halls at noon hour trying to accomplish something or another, little thing called yearbook information sheets, something that might be called an extended nine month orientation period in how to produce a yearbook, wondering if we'd ever make the deadline, questions like "Why are the yearbooks late this year? ", becoming very familiar with a thing called "beauracracy". Yes, I remember all these things with nostalgia. A surging emotion swells from within and forms into the words of a simple statement. "Whew, it's FINALLY finished!"

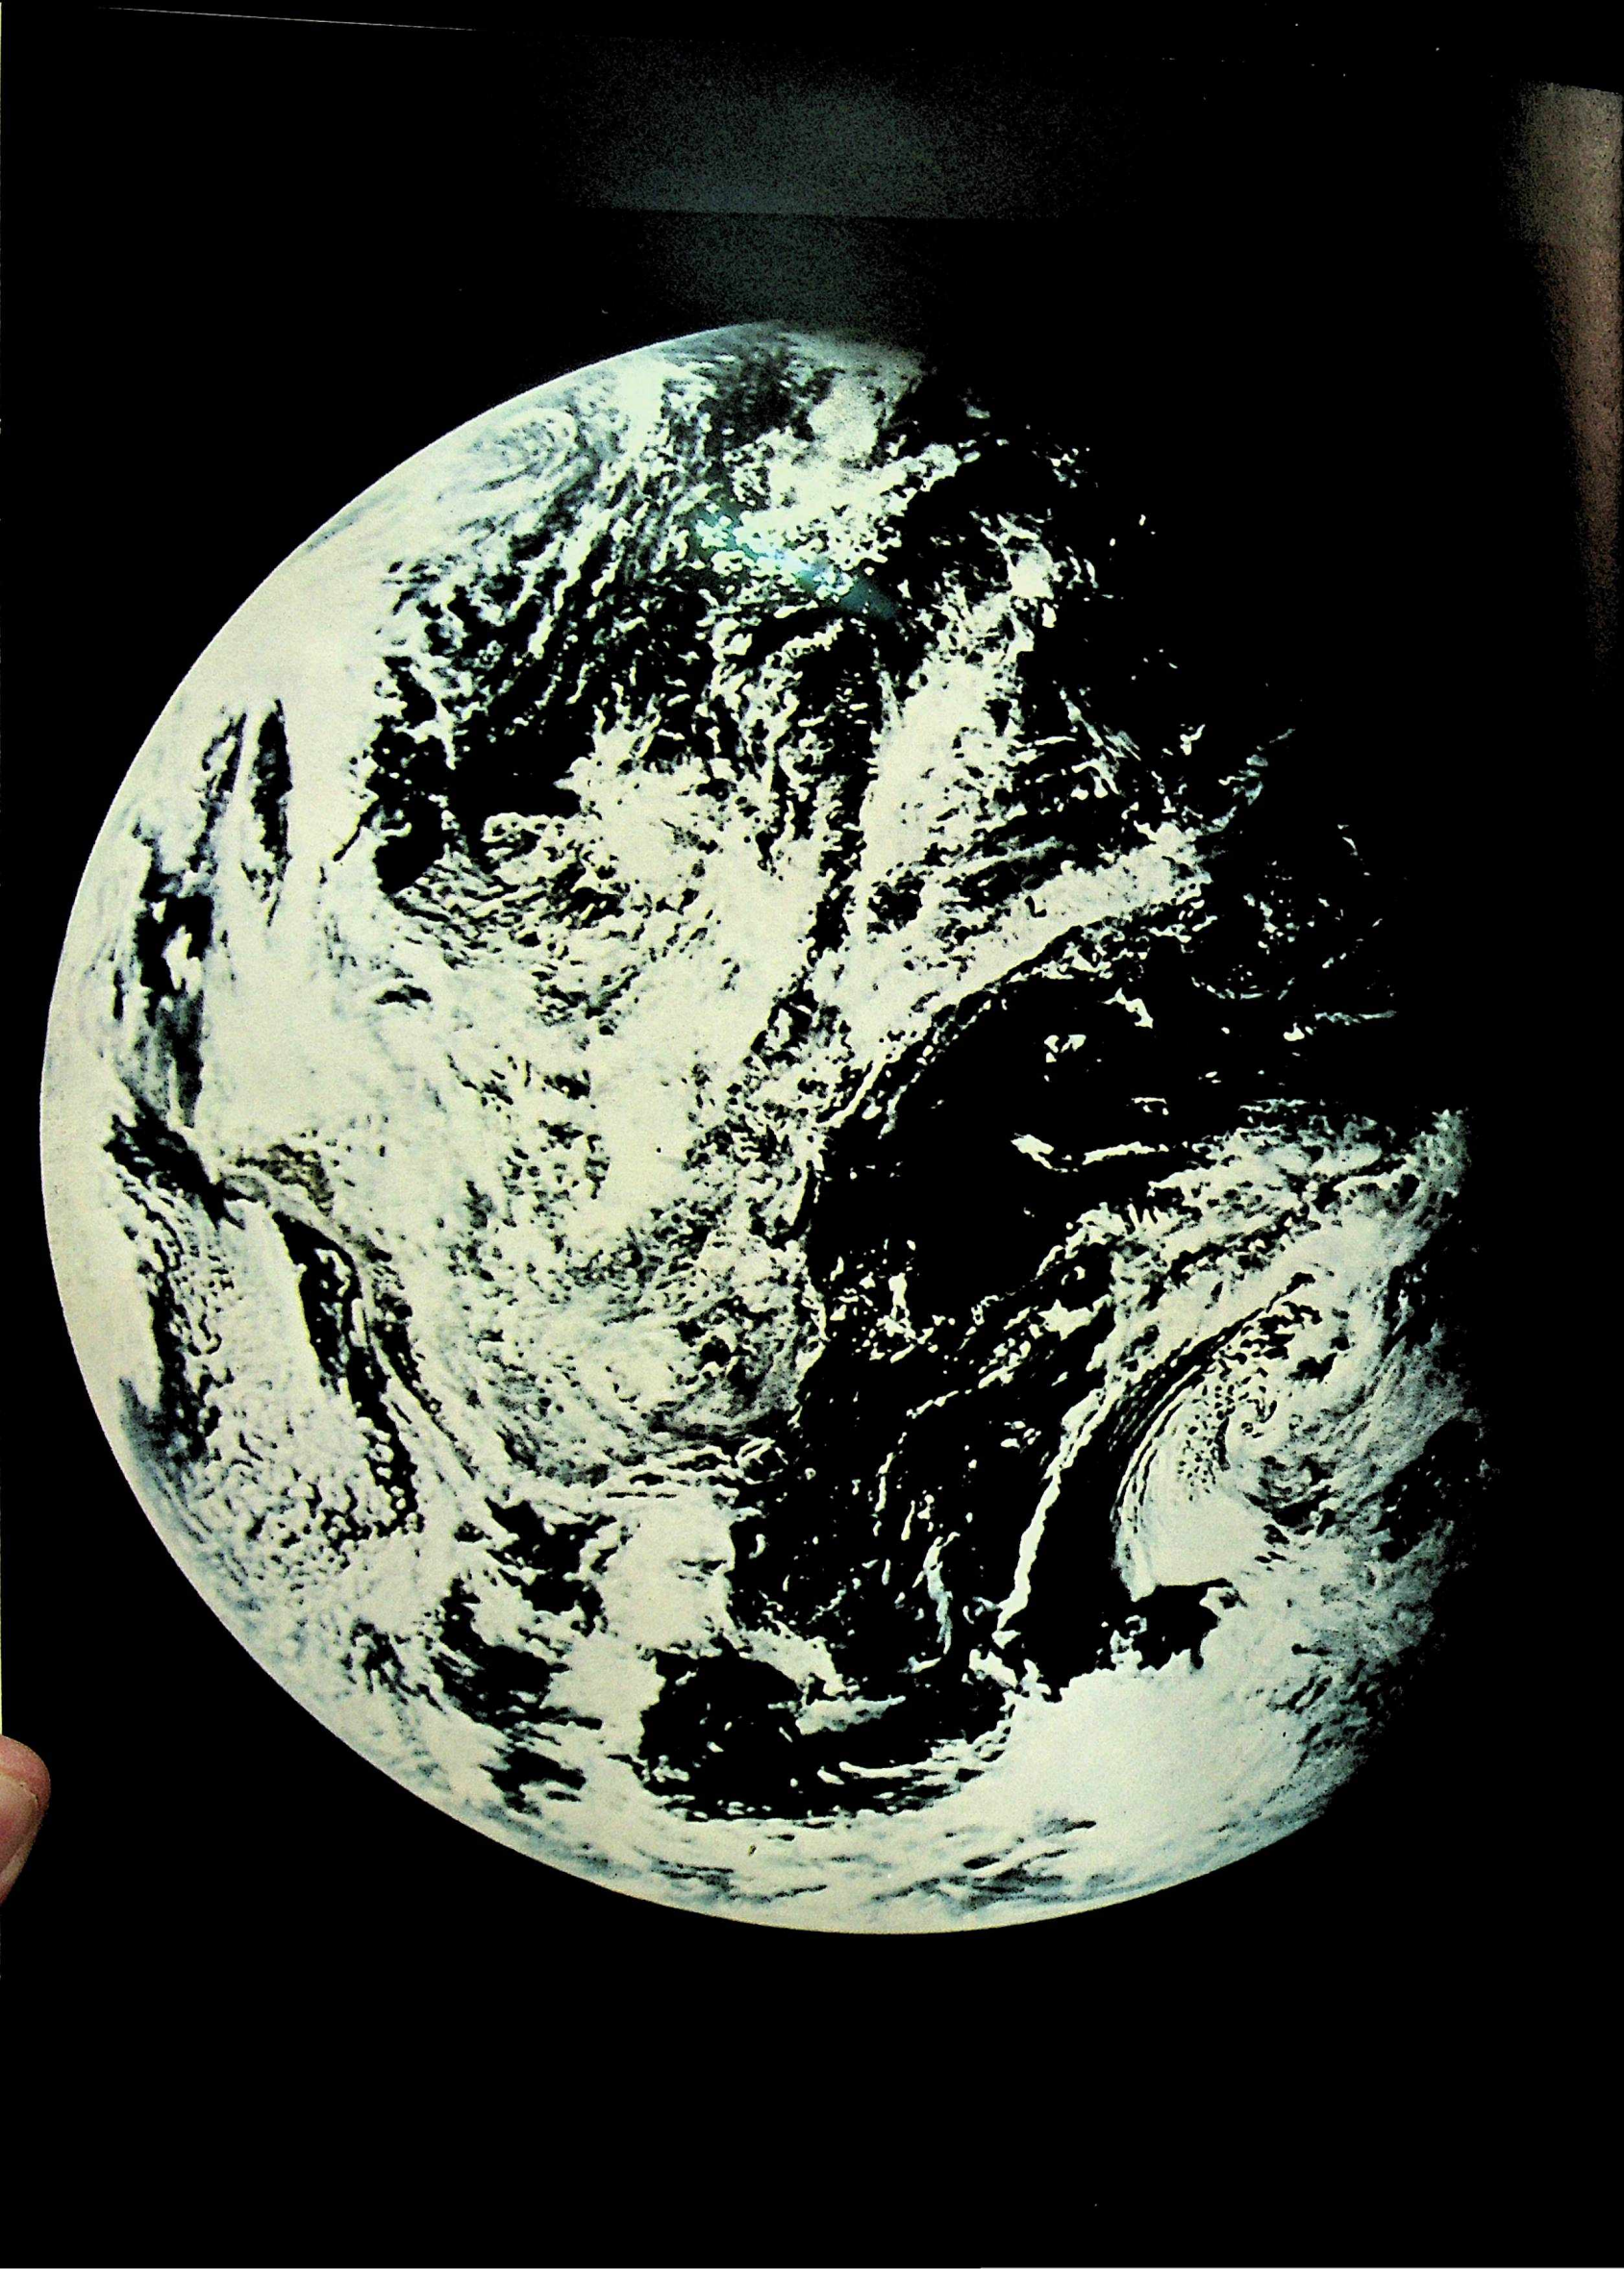

Patti Luniw (It's been fun.)

P.S. I want to sincerely thank all the great people that were directly associated with this year's TITAN TRADITION and everyone else that helped too.
